Policeman Gooley, who was 's clother, followed and told the young woman that he would send for an ambulance and have her taken to the hospital. To this the men objected, telling the policeman to mind his own business, as they would assist her to her home. The young woman objected to their escort, and when Gooley told them to let her alone one of the number struck at him with a baseball bat. The blow struck him on the shoulder. Some one in the hotel called other policemen to Gooley's assistance, and after a lively encounter the men were arrated. At the station house they said they were William Bowen, Alexander Hyde, James McArdle and Thomas Dwyer. They were arraigned yesterday before Justice Goetting, in the Lee Avenue Police Court, and held for examination on a charge of interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. Miss Keegan was taken to her home in a

EXAMINING THE BANK'S BOOKS. State Bank Examiner Preston, after setting half a dozen of his assistants at work on the books of the Commercial Bank, Saturday afternoon, left the bank and did not return. The examiners were busy with the books late Saturday night. The examination was resumed yesterday morning and the work was continued all day. It will probably be several days before anything definite can be learned regarding the condition of the bank. The failure of the bank was not much of a surprise to well-informed merchants in banking affairs. It seems to be the general opinion, however, that the depositors will get all of their money back.

The flower, which was large, white and deliciously scented, began to unfold soon after sunset, and in order to enable every one to see it Mr. Burgess, the gardener, took the plant out of the cactus bed at the lower end of the garden, and placed it under the electric light near the arch on the west side. The plant is known to botanists as phyllocactus latifrons.
